The Queen City Bearded Collie Club held a "B" Match in North Boulder Park, Boulder, Colorado. The judge was Mr. Lynn Twiford. Results were as follows:

Best Adult and Best Bitch: Edenborough Parcana, owned by Parker

Best Male: O'Kelidon's Willie Wag, owned by McHugh

Best Puppy: Thaydon Timberwolf, owned by Berger

Chris (?- sorry, can't read it)

On Sunday, September 25, the Bearded Collie Club of Long Island held its first Fun Match at Eisenhower Park, East Meadow. Judging the specialty competition was Anne Dolan, of Glen Eire Kennels, Schoharie, N.Y.

Mrs. Dolan, with the assistance of her daughter Carol, also conducted a short symposium on the care and grooming of Beardies. Club members are most grateful to the Dolans for their service in these capacities.

Despite overcast skies, steady showers and soaked grounds, an eager group of Bearded owners and fanciers gathered to exhibit their dogs, and to learn more about the breed. Good food and warm beverages added to everyone's good spirits, and especially happy were the winners in their respective categories.

Best in Match: Top Secret of Willowmead, owned by William C. Droll

Best Opposite: Glennamor Gallant Sailer, owned by Nancy Dresd

Best Puppy: Harry-O, owned by Mr. & Mrs. Jordan Jankus

The Western Reserve Bearded Collie Club's first match was staged in Strongsville, Ohio, on Saturday, September 17. If it wasn't enough that this was the club's first match, rain that had hung around all week threatened the success of the match. However, by the time judging began, the morning rain completely subsided and the sun began to break through, much to everyone's delight.

Eighteen entrants participated in the club's inaugural event which was capably judged by Colin Blake (Sweepstakes) and Barbara Blake (Regular Classes), both of Waterdown, Ontario, Canada.

Immediately following the judging, Mr. Blake presented a very informative talk on structure and movement with most of the exhibitors remaining in attendance.

Dear Editor:

The purpose of this letter is not to tell about our years in England or our Beardies. Our purpose is to stimulate interest in the exchange of information beneficial to the breeding of the best possible Beardies. We strongly believe that one must know all possible about what has been before you can know where you are going. We have had an opportunity to know so many dogs appearing on the pedigrees of our Beardies but, not everyone has been so fortunate. There is so much more to know after learning simple facts such as championship. Every dog has attributes and faults and we must learn as much about these as possible, particularly what is passed on to their children. Certain dogs may "click" only when bred to one bitch or one particular line. Others seem to pass on attributes regardless of line or particular bitch. Certain faults or problems arise when a particular dog is line bred on too heavily, etc. There is so much more to be learned. Simply breeding to or heavily line breeding on a given dog because he is an English Champion or truly handsome can be very dangerous, indeed. What else does he pass on?

When a problem arises or one is wondering about a particular mating why not write a letter to be published in a very special question and answer column of our Bulletin. If one has adverse facts in answer to a question and would rather not publish it for all to read, a simple letter could be sent to the individual asking for information. We would very much like to see the material that has been gathered by the SCCA Education Committee published for the use of all.

The issue of whites has been well covered and we do have a standard to use as our guide. We now hope we can all "press on" to more important aspects of breeding. There are so many things to cover. Small heads, too small or too large dogs, monorchids, health defects, temperament, etc. Some of these faults seem to be on the increase. Where we fall away from the standard on color, size, etc., lets change our breeding programs and not the standard. The dog should fit the standard, never the standard to fit the dog. Through mutual cooperation we can not only keep our lovely breed as it so wonderfully is but, improve upon it.

Sincerely,

Lorella Warren and Gail Miller

GREATS OF YESTERYEAR

THANK YOU BRACKEN

by Jackie Tidmarsh

Ever since I was knee high, I wanted a shaggy dog. It wasn't until I left school though, that my dream came true in the shape of AMBERFORD BRACKEN, a Bearded Collie.

I started work in a private zoo called "Pan's Garden" run by Clin and Jill Keeling. Amongst the inmates of the household were two Beardie bitches. One of these - MUSICAL MAID OF WILLOWMEAD - had ten puppies. One was half the size of her brothers and sisters and seemed to get pushed out every time food was put out. So I took her under my wing and fed her up. I became very attached to her and was delighted when Mrs. Keeling said that I could buy her.

The idea of breeding and showing didn't cross my mind until I started working for Anne Matthews of HARDACRE fame. She suggested I have a litter from Bracken. The Beardie benches became my main attraction at shows and after breeding Bracken to CANNAMOOR BAILIE, I joined the ranks with WISHBONE OF TAMBORA, a lovely born black bitch who did quite a lot of winning including a reserve CC. So I guess I was more than satisfied with my first show dog.

When we heard that Mrs. Willison was cutting down on her dogs, Mrs. Matthews bought BAUSANT OF BOTHKENNAR for me. He was a fairly big slate/white full of character. His first few days in Kent were spent in the surrounding countryside - his having escaped his kennel during the night. We got him back with no trouble once we cornered him in his shelter, which he'd chosen just behind our boundary wall. We soon discovered that he was a master of escapology - whenever I went home when I had time off, no matter what precautions were taken, Bausant would take off and refuse to come home until I called him on my return. He could get in with "in season" bitches with the greatest of ease, climbing through narrow windows, jumping walls, nothing could deter him - not even covered runs - if there was a weak spot, Bausant would find it. He sired so many Basset and Labrador litters that eventually we had to find him a pet home, where he settled very well. By now I suspect there will be lots of little Bausants around Dover!

Bracken's second and third litters were by Bausant. I kept Burdock and she proved a very successful breed bitch. I have two of her daughters, CH. EDELWEISS and HOLLYHOCK by CH. WISHANGER CAIRNBHAN and CH. OSMART BONNIE BLUE BRAID respectively. Both have proved themselves in the show ring and as producers of first class stock. In Edelweiss' first litter to Ch. Blue Braid she had CH. JUNO and Can. Ch. Bronze Javelin and Can. Ch. Jeannie. Her second litter to Braid has turned out Marguerite (Best Bitch, Beardie Club Open show 1972), Mountain Dew, consistent winner, and in the USA, Midas with the Tiltens.

Hollyhock's first litter to WILLOWMEAD SUMMER SUN, was lovely and Knick-Knack is with Mrs. Morrison (USA). Two others, Black Kap and Black Kettle, went to Joan Luckey in the USA. Her second litter to WISHANGER WHIMSICAL OF WILLOWMEAD, was even better, all four pups were show quality. The most notable, as yet, is BLACK NANCY who went to New Zealand and won a CC at her first show.

Unfortunately, Burdock hasn't had any more puppies. She's missed 5 times to 3 dogs, so she's now retired, growing old and fat graciously, enjoying being a pensioner.

Bracken's last litter was by BRAELYN BROADHOLME CROFTER. CH. IVORY BLACK (Lee Tilton, USA) was one and IRISH LACE stayed at home, this year winning 4 res. CC'S.

Its nearly three years ago now, that Bracken died aged only 8 years. She had encephalitis, which was causing fits. There was nothing that could be done for her and eventually on Dec. 9th, 1969, she was put to sleep to prevent further suffering. She wasn't a show girl but a nicer personality would be hard to find. She endeared herself to everyone. As much as I love her offspring, Bracken still holds the largest part of my heart. I shall never forget her or the fact that without her the TAMBORAS would not have been born - Thank you BRACKEN.

The following piece of poetry always brings a lump to my throat. I can see Bracken's eyes so clearly, looking through the mist.

CHILD OF THE MISTS
by Sandra Russell-Smith

Creation of the swirling mists of time, coloured of the mists of marsh and moor, of rivers and of craggy ter, whose coat so clearly shows the swirls and eddies of his parentage.

Small wonder then that from such a parent sprang, he has no fear of elements what they will - proud hear uplifted to the rearing wind, or pled undaunted through rain or snow, his cousins all.

Thus receiving the Creator's blessing, he is serene - peaceful and calm, unruffled, faithful and obedient - strong his allegiance to his masters will. Thus blessed in truth, for else, no man could grasp such child of the mists.

Deny him not the chance at break of day, when eyes are glazed with wistful longing, to glance uplifted to the rugged hills, release him that he might rise to salute his parent.

Thus, at last, when the day comes for him to return to his own when his feet are wearied from accompanying you on the long path weep not - at daybreak go to the mists - do they not swirl -
and there, in a moment were there not the gentle eyes you used to know - those of the Beardie reclaimed unto his own.

where do these faults come from? by Carol Gold

Every breed has its bugbears and it seems half the Beardie breeders right now are looking for the bugs that have borne them! They're all looking for the dogs to blame for whites, smooths (Border Collies), bad mouths, etc., etc. that have cropped up in various litters.

Well, the truth is that these faults aren't exceptional events--they're common throughout the breed and appeared regularly in all the Bothkennar litters, and probably before that. Since all our present-day dogs are descended from the handful of working-bred Beardies that Mrs. Willison and the other breeders in the 40's and 50's could find, the genes for these traits are well and thoroughly distributed across the breed today. To hunt down a dog to blame, or even to plan a breeding program just to avoid any of these problems, is pointless when you can't go back more than a couple of generations in any Beardie's pedigree without turning up all the same names.

About the only thing you can do is avoid repeating combinations that produce these faults, since both parents--notice I said both--parents are carriers. On the other hand you have to be careful of setting your sights on the problems instead of the virtues of a litter. When Mary Partridge first mated Ch. Willowmead My Honey to Ch. Wishanger Barley of Bothkennar, she got a whole litter of mismarks, except one. That was Ch. Wishanger Winter Harvest, a bitch of such quality that Mary repeated the litter and got more mismarks and some correctly marked dogs. One of them was Ch. Wishanger Cairnbhan, one of the most important producing dogs in the history of the breed! Imagine the loss if he'd never been born!

It's important to remember that Beardies have only been bred for looks for 30 years. Before that, they were working dogs (except for some brief excursions into the show ring in the early 1930's and around the turn of the century). Mrs. Willison started with a dog and a bitch who looked typically Beardie but whose backgrounds were a mystery. She and other pioneer show breeders incorporated whatever Beardie-type dogs they could find into their breeding even if they had to accept faults like overshot mouths. And the process still goes on, though in a more limited way. The English Kennel Club will register any working Beardie-type dog as a Beardie if a committee of championship show judges will pass it as looking typical of the breed. A few of these have been registered even in recent years.

And with these unknown dogs, just as with Mrs. Willison's foundation stock, comes the risk of varied crosses behind them. The farmers and shepherds were more interested in working ability than appearance and mated the best workers together. Beardie/Border crosses were--and still are--very popular, with the shaggy offspring being called Beardies and the smooth-coated ones classified as Borders. Of course, there were many who preferred to keep the coat and characteristics of the Beardie pure, even to the point of separating the colours. The farmers who kept the brown dogs would never mate them to a grey dog because they felt it would destroy the working ability (and doubtless the feeling was reciprocated by those who kept the grey dogs). But when show breeders acquired working Beardies, there was no way of knowing whether they were from pure lines or not. At least not until "smooths" started popping up in the succeeding generations! Or curly coats and heavy bone, giving evidence of Old English crosses somewhere in the background. Or other characteristics foreign to the Beardie.

It's going to take a long time before these reminders of our breed's past become unusual---in 50 years they'll still be turning up. The only way to combat them is by the slow and steady process of breeding for type, of breeding to virtue as strongly as against faults. And understanding that when you make a silk purse out of a sow's ear, you've got to expect it to "oink" fairly frequently.

FOR BETTER BEARDIES
by Kay Holmes

An Experience--The Whelping and Care of a Bearded Collie Bitch and Puppies, Part III.

First Week

If you are going to have the puppy's dewclaws removed, most veterinarian's recommend the 2nd-4th day. It is usually a harmless procedure. However, some friends-in-Beardies found that their recent litter had considerable weight loss and fussiness with their pups a day or two after the dewclaw removal. Like everything else you just have to watch them and stay on top of everything. We have had no problems with dewclaw removal. There are several methods of removal, so talk to your veterinarian to see what he recommends.

Weighing puppies -- we weigh our pups at birth, the 4th day, the 8th day, and then just once a week after that. Many people prefer to weigh the pups every day for the first week or two. Do whatever makes you comfortable. If I think a pup is not gaining as well as it should, I will weigh it more often to check. So far, most of ours have been fat little things, and I could see that they were gaining satisfactorily. Here are our high-low weight gains for the 4th day and 8th:

4th day -- gains from birth ranged  $4\frac{1}{2}$  oz. to 7 oz.

8th day -- gains from birth ranged 8 oz. to 16 oz!

Quite a variation. Our first litter of 5 was bigger at birth and initially made larger daily gains. The second litter of ten, made smaller gains, but they did catch up with the weights of the previous litter. However, not until they were nearly 3 months old.

Record Keeping

The reason I am able to relate all these facts to you is that I try to keep detailed records on all my dog related activities. Breeding and whelping are important events in the life of a dog fancier. I learn through my records, and over time can see how different events are related, and the cause and effects of various things.

For the puppies I use an  $8\frac{1}{2}$ " x 11" mimeographed sheet. The following data is recorded for each pup:

1. Date of birth, sex, color, time of whelping, and its order at birth, #1, #2, Etc. Until I name the pups I refer to them by their birth number in my records. This is easier than saying, "the black female with full blaze, white socks on rear, etc."
2. Registered names of sire and dam--registration numbers if you wish.
3. Litter registration number and A.K.C. number of pup.
4. Registered name of pup and eventually what the new owners call it.
5. Weight records for first, 4th day, 1st-8th weeks. There are spaces to record more if I take them, or if the new owners send them to me.
6. Name, address, and phone number of new owner.
7. Health record--you can record wormings, vaccinations, dewclaw removal, etc. with dates.
8. Outline of a pup (see diagram). This is to sketch in where the white markings are. It is a good identification record.

9. Development Record (my critique)--usually recorded during the 6-8th week before the puppy leaves.
  - a. Head -- includes teeth (bite), eye color, type, ears, pigment.
  - b. Coat -- texture, length.
  - c. Movement -- side, front, rear.
  - d. Body -- proportions, neck, shoulder, chest, back, croup, front and rear legs (stance), angulation, tail, and feet.

The back side of the record sheet is left blank and it is here I record my weekly observations on each pup. What I am looking for and what I record varies with the age of the pup. I will discuss this more in Part IV.

To be continued...more record keeping, care of bitch and pups through weaning, puppy testing, socializing, find good homes, and more.

Se-o-o You Want to Scissor

Have you heard about the Beardie being shown around the country with her head coat over her eyes, and trimmed straight across in little "Dutch girl" fashion? She is winning with her professional handler. I am beginning to think from the reports coming in that there is a conspiracy of some exhibitors and handlers to see who comes up with the most unique trim for the show Bearded Collie. It is too bad that they do not appreciate the uniqueness we already have with the Beardies, a show dog that requires NO trimming.

Do you have an itchy scissor finger? Here is what you can do with it. Get a small pair of blunt-tipped scissors ("baby" scissors at the drug store) and trim out the hair on the inside of your Beardie's ears. Drop eared dogs are especially susceptible around the outside of the ear canal helps air circulation, and aids in cleaning. If you have a heavy coated dog, some time put your hand just under the hanging ear. You will be surprised at the amount of heat in that area. If you keep your Beardie's ears trimmed and clean, he will probably never have to suffer through a painful ear infection.

Until next time.....

In 1976 American Professional Handler, Mr. Felix Cosme, joined the BEAGOLD kennels, as my partner, since then we have had a very exciting and successful year, highlights being a First win in Junior Dog at Crufts 1977, with Beagold Porter Harvey, (Now in Denmark); Reserve Best in Show, Reserve C.C. and C.C. wins with Ch. Edenborough Star Turn at Beagold, followed by many Best of Breed and Group wins; Res. C.C. win with Ch. Davealex Royle Baron on his return after a year's rest from the show ring. Star of the venture is brown Peter MacKenzie at Beagold and his litter sister Ester Barham at Beagold, (Wishanger Cairngarroch ex Cannamoer High Society) these two are heavily inbred on that super dark brown Ch. Wishanger Cairnbahn.

Following in the winning show career of our two Champions, are Beagold Beardsley Lad, (Ch. Edenborough Star Turn at Beagold's son) and Beagold Black Camaro (Beagold Porter Harvey's son) they have always been in the winning line-up. And soon to make his show ring appearance is a super Ch. Davealex Royle Baron's son, Kirrand Drummer Boy at Beagold who will be a striking silver grey with dark eye and pigmentation.

(Can. Ch. Misty Shadow of Willowmead ex Luath Bonnie Blue Bairn)

Pictured above is our super lad, Willie Wonderful, going Best Puppy in Match under English judge Derek Stopforth. We are proud of Willie and the other Glen Eire bred Beardies who did so well that day. Our congratulations to:

Glen Eire's Tug McGraw owned by James & Stacy Drake of Yorktown Heights, N.Y. for winning Best Adult Dog.

Our Scottish import stud dog Bunwell Springfields ("Raven") congratulates his two daughters for winning 1st & 2nd places in 3-6 month class.

We have two new Glen Eire bred champions.

Ch. Glen Eire That's A Statement - owned by Peggy Westphal, and

Ch. Glen Eire Ton Mhor Tosh - owned by Barbara Hazera.

Congratulations to both!!

We are planning several litters this winter including a 3rd repeat of the litter which has produced Ch. Glen Eire's That's A Statement from the first breeding, and our own Willie Wonderful from the second, as well as other lovely pups currently in the show ring.
