HERDING

Elsa Sell • beaconbb@bellsouth.net

There's been lots of activity in herding over the summer. Let's start with instinct certified Beardies. Witnessing your Beardedie's herding instinct for the first time is a thrill to never be forgotten. Success is rewarded with a BCCA HIC certificate for the dog; sires and dams with enough qualifying progeny earn a BCCA Herding Register of Merit certificate. Hopefully we will see some of these names again.

Judges - Saturday – John Holman, Sunday – Ken Theus

Judge John Holman shared his observations. On September 29th and 30th of this year I was privileged to judge the herding trials at this year's Bearded Collie Specialty. The trials were held at the JR Ranch facility in Patterson, CA and I am happy to report that things went extremely well!!! The sheep and ducks were dog broke and honest; they went where they were asked to go by the dogs. The organization of the trial was superb, nothing was overlooked, and things moved smoothly from one course to the next. The food was nothing short of amazing at lunch and especially at the handler's dinner on Saturday night. Nothing is better than Tri-Tip with all the trimmings!!

The most noteworthy part of the weekend was the improvement in the dogs and the handling since I last judged the Beardie Specialty 18 years ago. The dogs did what they were bred to do, and they did it well. My compliments to the handlers and dogs at this event, they have come a long, long way, and show no signs of slowing down now!!!

Congratulations to Brenda Cox and her beardie Laverne, now OTCH Britannia Sebring Serenipity UDX OM2 BN RE PT; owned by Brenda Cox, Kirsten Andreassend, and Michele Ritter, on achieving an Obedience Trial Championship. They are the fifth beardie obedience team to join an elite group to earn the OTCH. Anyone who has had the opportunity to watch Brenda and Laverne in the obedience ring is inspired by their team work and the obvious joy they have competing together.

Congratulations to all our competitors in obedience and rally at the 2018 national specialty. The high scoring awards for both trials are as follows.

LAST SUMMER

Sue Banfield

Last summer, my father Charlie Banfield and I took Echo on a month-long road trip to Dog Camp in Stowe, VT. Along the way we didn't stop at the World's Largest Ball of Stamps in Nebraska or the Jell-O Gallery and Museum in LeRoy, NY. My mom and dad had made this trek since the turn of the century and hit all the historic, interesting, educational, and unusual attractions that America has to offer. This trip would not be a meander; as a mom with two students, a husband and my own dogs at home, this trip called for a Beeline.

Cornfields were flying by my window when my dad casually mentioned that the Bearded Collie National Specialty was coming to Sacramento this October. Just as casually, he said he had entered Echo and yours truly in all the Agility events. Some minor medical event rendered me silent as I worked to discern the meaning in that odd combination of words. Was my dad speaking in tongues? Had all the sitting created a blood clot in my auditory cortex? Maybe this isn't spiritual or medical but environmental; could the winds of the plains be playing tricks? Perhaps my Dad's sense of humor had taken a turn toward the absurd. Yet no punch line or wry smile followed. Alan Funt was not on-board.

As I sat there tongue-tied, I recalled the four-legged friends that filled my childhood home. These scruffy survivors were not our dogs but those from the neighborhood, the shelter, the universe. Dogs know good people and dogs found my mom and dad. These mutts loved us and we loved them. We taught them tricks and they taught us the importance of consistency, exercise, good nutrition, and personal grooming.

The only purebreds in our home resided on the coffee table in the International Encyclopedia of Dog Breeds. This valued tome, with a splendid Samoyed on the cover, was so thoroughly loved that it automatically opened to the Herding Group, where a glorious Bearded Collie smiled at the reader: "The boisterous Beardie is lively and playful, full of enthusiasm and energy. He is smart and obedient, but is an independent ..."

We fell in love with a picture in a book and went to meet the real deal at the Golden Gate Kennel Club Dog Show in the early '70's. The "Bench" format brought to life the breeds from our coffee table book and the Beardies did not disappoint. They herded ducks, selected specific wooden dumbbells from a box full of wooden dumbbells, they didn't run but floated around the conformation ring. My 8-year-old mind was blown and I think my parents had a similar reaction. Consistent with my mother's persona, she fell in love not with the cuddly puppies, but with the worker, the brood bitch with her blown coat and soulful brown eyes. Misty was nearing the end of her "productive" life and perhaps my mom, mother of many, had a moment of understanding with the thin, exhausted being. I do not know how it happened, but not long after the Cow Palace experience, Misty came to live with us. From then on, we were "Beardie People" and Misty was "our" dog. Misty's purebred fanciness wasn't the end of the mutt parade but the force that motivated my parents to lend what they could to the Bearded Collie Rescue Network. Champion Bonnie Misty Morn, CD, lived to be 14 and gently welcomed over 40 "rescue" dogs thru our lives on to their Forever Homes. Her legacy continued well after her death and the rescues (some bearded, others not so much) grow each year.

As we rolled East, I regained the ability to speak: The National Bearded Collie Specialty, you say? Entered Echo, you say? Here are just a few reasons this won't work: Echo isn't my dog and I don't live with, or even near her. I have never trained in agility or been in a dog show. I don't know a blind cross from a front cross, or is it a flying cross? Are you CRAZY? But sometimes Father Knows Best. I have my parent's dog sense, and would have five days at Dog Camp to learn the game, the commands, the nuances of the sport, and bond with Echo. My mom and dad had done all the heavy lifting in the training department: Echo has titles in Confirmation, Obedience, Rally, and Herding. She is a smart girl with a competitive spirit and knows the obstacles. Maybe we won't be a complete and total embarrassment to the Beardie establishment. Even if we are, it will be good to meet the many people who loved my mom and it may help me close the circle.

If you knew my mother, you understand the magnitude of our loss after her passing. Doris' authentic demeanor and genuine love of others made her an excellent partner, friend, mother and a successful dog person. With my dad's support, she raised her kids like dogs, which is to say we could depend on her steady guidance, positive reinforcement and high-valued treats. Regardless of the stupid pet tricks we pulled, she forgave, forgot, and got on with training.

My dad, Echo and I arrive at the Agility venue at Mather Airforce Base bright and early. Beautiful ribbons adorn custom-made director's chairs. I didn't indulge in looking at them, knowing we won't be taking one home. Years of work go into training and trialing as a successful agility team, I don't even know the acronyms. As the course went up, I felt more and more anxious. I want to disappear or vomit, or both. Thank Dog we skipped breakfast. My dad forgot his tablet so Echo and I ran back to the room. We forgot a hat. Echo and I ran back and forth. Forgot water, back and forth. We forgot as many things as possible and that mileage helped both of us; Echo was feeling my nerves.

This last year has been a dark time for me. The curtain of depression descended on me over the last months of my mom's life. She and I had a special bond born of dog love and shared mind-set. When I suffered a catastrophic accident as a young athlete, that bond grew. She was with me when a car drove thru a triathlon and my skull met the windshield. She advocated for me in a hospital 3,000 miles from home and asserted her Army toughness and wisdom when the medical establishment had given up on my survival. She was there through the surgeries, the therapies, and my slow realization that my dream was dead.

My mom was there with me at the Specialty. She wasn't really "there" but the many amazing Beardie people who hugged me and shared a story, who encouraged me and explained the game, who cheered for me and yelled to have Echo stop the clock at the finish jump in FAST, well, you all shared your love and in doing so, were there for me and it felt like Mom.

Echo and I bumbled our way thru the day and managed to end up on our feet. At the end of the JWW (another acronym) a new friend said "You got a Q!" I had to ask what that meant. The nerves began to let up near the end when the delightful

SEPTEMBER 2018 AKC DELEGATE REPORT

Kathy Coxwell • hattieboo@gmail.com

The Delegate meeting was held at the Newark Airport Doubletree Hotel on September 24-25. Committees met on Monday, the 24th, and the Delegate body met on Tuesday, the 25th.

PARENT CLUB COMMITTEE

The Parent Club Committee met on Monday, and as usual, had a full agenda.

1. Discussion of the Parent Club Conference List, Parent Clubs Delegate List and Dock and Crop.
2. Sheila Goff, Legislative liaison discussed the monitoring of 2100 bills, including the Farm Bill, which comes up for renewal every five years. Discussion of requiring the USDA to keep up with the number of imported dogs, some of which are brought in as "rescues." Some have health problems, have fake veterinary certificates, etc. Want to require that dogs that fail the health tests be sent back by the transporter that brought them in.
3. AKC Archives is no longer accepting print publications from clubs unless they are in digital format.
4. 164 member clubs have submitted health statements.
5. TRAILERS: 398 clubs have participated; $1,798,421.00 in donations and $450,000 from AKC, for a total of $2,248,421. Ten new trailers in the pipeline, 3 to be delivered in the next few weeks, At least 28 have been delivered to disaster sites, and 68 delivered total.
6. There is a need for clubs to help train FEMA people before they go in with the trailers. The person to contact for training information is jeffbeckyball@yahoo.com.
7. AKC is working to become more pro-active in disaster situations before HSUS and some of the other groups take dogs away and make no effort to reunite owners.
8. The Parent Club Self-Evaluation form is available. This is an educational tool for the clubs. They can ask themselves if they are being a good parent club to its members.

Christiana and I participated in the tunnel relay. This nervous novice didn't understand the rules of another new game but the kind judge gently educated me and we went on to get 2nd place and win some beautiful hand-made dog toys.

In the end, we did win a chair and beautiful ribbons, but the real prize was meeting a crew of kindred. I had hoped the BCCA National experience would help close a circle for me, but what it did was quite the opposite. A new world of has been revealed: A competitive environment where everyone, with the support and encouragement of other competitors, can be a winner. This is a new thing to me and I like it. Dog Agility is the opposite of a zero-sum game and I really love the idea. Echo and I are going to work hard and we look forward to seeing you all at future dog events.

Many thanks for the hard work of the Beardie people: Your devotion and love have raised the dark curtain and given light to new possibilities. Thank you all

9. Multiple juniors are participating in multiple events, but we need to encourage more 4-H clubs add showing dogs to their programs.

10. Clubs should review their flyers and see if there is any updating needed.

11. Canine College Courses: 24 courses that have been put up have been approved.
