Our Cover . . .

This issue's cover Beardie is Can. Am. Ch. Algobrae Sterling Silver. "Tyler" is the Top Winning Bearded Collie and the Top Winning Canadian Bred Bearded Collie for 1979 (BCCC).

During 1979, Tyler completed his championship as a puppy. Shown sparingly as a Special, taking the breed almost everytime out, Tyler was awarded several group placements and an all-breed Best in Show.

During 1980 Tyler has been withheld from the Canadian show scene, but in the US he earned his American championship by taking a 5-point and three 4-point majors. Watch for Tyler's return to the show ring soon.

Tyler is producing promising offspring who are beginning to make their own marks in the show ring. From Tyler's first litter of show age he sired the outstanding young dog, Ch. Amulree Argo Whauphill. Watch for more outstanding Tyler puppies in the show ring in 1981.

At stud to approved bitches only.
Fee and pedigree upon request.

To the Editor

This is directed to Mary Edner and Catherine Cline. I was truly amazed when I read your comments on Cynthia Mahigian's printing of Dave Karnes' "Judging: The Exhibitor's Point of View."

I do not see how you can honestly call Cynthia an irresponsible editor when you yourself have admitted to censoring an article sent to you until you felt it was alright to print in your publication. I feel than an editor's duty is to "edit" NOT "censor" articles received by them. If this were the case then the publication would end up being a narrow-minded point of view of the "editor." I feel that all articles sent may be edited if need be, then printed. This way the publication represents anyone's and everyone's point of view, whether it be right or wrong.

As Cynthia stated in her first edition of the Beardie Bulletin, "3. A newsletter should reflect a wide variety of persons, not a single point of view. I should also provide an open forum for new, old, and sometimes strange ideas and viewpoints to be aired. It should not be a place for name-calling or thoughtless accusations."

Therefore, I totally agree with Cynthia's decision to print Dave Karnes' viewpoint. You are doing a great job, Cynthia, and I am sure many other people will agree with me.

From the Editor

You may have noticed on the inside front cover that the Bulletin will be coming out this year on a new schedule. This is predominately an attempt to allow more time after the National Specialty for Specialty winners to order and receive their photos and make the Bulletin's publication deadlines. The new schedule simply adds one month to each old deadline, i.e., the dates will now be:

April 1 for inclusion in issue mailed by April 30
July 1	July 31
October 1	October 31
January 1	January 31

The October issue, then, will be our "Specialty Highlights" issue, and will, possibly, offer some kind of rate break for Specialty winners, if this can be worked out. Regular advertising and copy would still be accepted as usual, of course.

The thought had occurred to me that it might be interesting to make each issue feature a certain theme (much like Kennel Review does). For example, one issue could focus on breeders, another on exhibitors, or on the top winners of the year. Again, perhaps a discount rate could apply for ads in each category, while regular ads and copy could be taken at the regular rates. What do you think? Drop me a line...if you like the idea we might start next issue with a "breeders" feature. Watch for details in the Newsletter.

The photo contest was a real success. The top winning photos in both categories are printed in this issue. We had about 50 entries, so those of you who won had some pretty good competition. The first place winners will receive a free full-page ad (with photo) in any of this year's Bulletins. We will be publishing the other placing photos throughout the year, and I think you'll see that it was really a difficult task, picking the winners from all the excellent choices. The judges were John Cote--a photographer and the long-suffering printer of the Bulletin; David Mulenex--a photographer and Beardie owner (though not a club member); and Gretchen Scott--groomer and long-time F.O.B. (Friend of Beardies). All names on photos were covered over, and the three were sequestered in a (hermetically) sealed room to make their choices. I think you'll agree they did a good job, and deserve our thanks. Thanks, too, to all of you who sent in entries and helped to make the idea a success. Your photos and Certificates of Merit should be to you in the next week or so. Congratulations!

Support for the Yearbook has been extremely encouraging...those of you who wish to but have not yet reserved your space(s) should probably do so as soon as possible. Remember, we are somewhat restricted in size due to economics--don't miss out on what's sure to be a collector's item in the future.

(Almost) finally--I haven't written this much seriousness since Freshman English, and that was a long time ago--the price of individual copies of each issue of the Bulletin has been raised to $3.00 a copy to cover the cost of mailing them out. Unfortunate, but necessary.

And (really) finally--I trust all of you had a Merry Christmas and are starting on a prosperous New Year. I hope to see many of you at the Garden next month...and the rest of you at the Chicago Specialty in August. As someone says.... "Be there or be square!"

Meeting the Challenge of the TDX

by Ruth E. Ivers

Excitement was in the April air as the first dog, Bearded Collie Ch. Cannamoore Honey Rose CD, TD, approached the flag at the New England Dog Training Club's first advanced tracking test. Conditions were ideal for tracking: little wind, cool air, a cloudy sky, and good ground cover freshened by an overnight shower. Plotted by two judges experienced with the Canadian TDX test, the track was excellent--demanding but fair. In the two months since the American TDX test had been approved, however, only four dogs had passed. Would Honey be equal to the challenge of the TDX?

After the two judges had indicated the starting flag, Honey and Virginia Parsons, her trainer and handler, were on their own. Unlike the TD Test, which has two starting flags to indicate the initial direction taken by the person walking the track, the TDX has only one. Therefore, it is entirely up to the dog to determine the direction taken by the tracklayer three hours before. Her handler could only wait while Honey circled around the flag, checking the ground in different directions. When she finally decided that the tracklayer had gone straight ahead into the open field, Honey put her nose down to follow his scent and started off, pulling into her tracking harness as her handler followed at the end of a thirty-foot line.

After making the first turn in the tracks of the tracklayer, Honey came to her second major challenge -- a crosstrack with a fresher scent left by two people walking four feet apart, who crossed the original track 1 1/2 hours after the person Honey was following. Although she turned her head briefly in acknowledgement of the fresher scent, she was not to be diverted and kept doggedly on after her original quarry.

Shortly after locating the tracklayer's belt, the first of three articles left directly on the track for the dog to find, Honey encountered her first obstacle; the tracklayer had left the open meadow and plunged through high, dense marsh grass. Honey was not to be deterred, however, and followed along, discovering two more turns before the trail once again emerged into the open field, where it was crossed for a second time by the two, fresh diversionary tracks. This time, Honey ignored them completely.

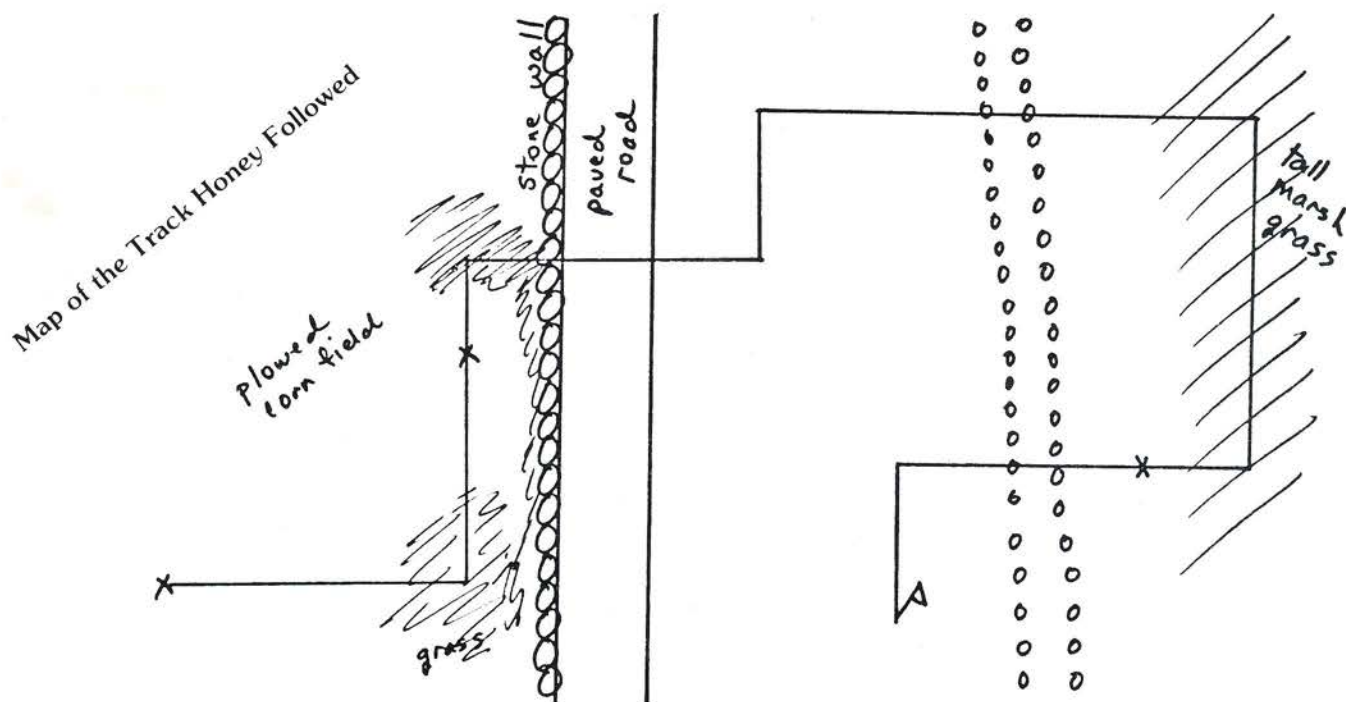

Through two more turns in the open field, across a paved road, over a stone wall, and into a second field, Honey tracked her quarry. More than halfway there--and then, Honey met her most difficult challenge: a plowed corn field. There was little vegetation to hold the tracklayer's scent, and during the three hours since he had passed that way, it had spread out over the bare ground and settled in the furrows. Again and again, Honey had to check out this elusive, billowing scent, working slowly and patiently down the field. Suddenly, she was rewarded with the tracklayer's scarf, her second article. Thus encouraged, she went on, picking up a stronger scent when she left the plowed field for a section of grassy ground. Unfortunately, the final corner took her back into the corn field. Once again forward progress was slow, but Honey persevered until she found the tracklayer's glove at the end of the half-mile track.

Thus, Honey had successfully followed a three-hour-old human scent trail more than 800 yards through all types of terrain and over several obstacles, had ignored a fresher diversionary double crosstrack which had intersected the original track in two widely separated places, and had found three personal articles dropped by the tracklayer along the way. In doing so, she became the fifth dog of any breed and the first Bearded Collie to meet all of the requirements for passing the AKC Advanced Tracking Test. To date, only 16 out of 112 entrants have been equally successful.

After officiating at the NEDTC TDX test, Dorothy Budge, experienced Canadian tracking judge, commented that the AKC TDX test was more difficult than the Canadian one because of the variety of obstacles a dog and handler might encounter, each requiring specialized training. At the same time she felt such challenges make the American test more practical. Thus the advanced tracking test simulates actual working conditions and presents problems a working tracker might really encounter in searching for a fugitive or a lost child. Ch. Cannamoor Honey Rose CD, TDX overcame each one to successfully meet the challenge of the TDX.

Choosing a Puppy

by Jackie Tidmarsh

The following article comes to us from the Bearded News, via the Beardie Expression (WRBCC)

After much consideration, I've decided to attempt to tell you what I personally look for when choosing a puppy as a show prospect. I hope it will be of some assistance to you in your ventures, with this, my favourite and much loved breed.

When the pups are born I have a good look at their confirmation, length of neck, back and ribcage, shoulder placement and angulation of the hindquarters, tail set and length, etc. Although I watch their development constantly, I never make my final decisions until they are about 7 or 8 weeks old. The ones which appeal from the start are often the ones I eventually choose, but as the heads begin to develop at about 4 to 5 weeks, I reserve judgement. I remember a puppy in one of my first litters which I really liked right from birth. She had a very nice head amongst other features and my heart was set on keeping her, but when she was five weeks old her head started to change. By the time she was 7 weeks she had a very small "snipey" muzzle, though everywhere else she was beautiful. I didn't keep her, because to me a good head is very important feature of the dog, and a poor head can spoil the whole picture.

When it comes to making up my mind, I like to sit amongst the pups for a while, until they've forgotten I'm there. I can then assess their movement, general outline and balance. Then I examine them on a table, and look for the following virtues:

A squarish skull with muzzle of roughly the same length, preferably a bit on the longer than the shorter side, with a blunt nose. The ears should be triangular viewed from the front, and set on at the corners of the skull. Eyes have usually cleared by this age, and the darker they are the better I like them. But of course the paler coated dogs, i.e., born blue, brown or the black who is going to be a light grey (this can be detected if the black has already begun to clear to grey, especially round the eyes, legs and tail) generally have a lighter eye than the dark, slate greys and blacks. The eyes should be largish but by no means bulbous.

The teeth should be a scissor bite. If they are correct at 8 weeks I don't worry if they go slightly overshot between then and 4-5 months, especially during teething. But if they are wrong at 8 weeks, I don't take a chance on them as they don't usually come right.

The front legs must be straight and the feet tight with well-arched toes, and oval in shape. I find trimming toenails at weekly intervals from one week old until the pups are tottering, apart from being kinder to mum, helps pups to find their feet quicker, and encourages them to be tight.

The neck should be slightly arched, a little more so on a dog, and shoulder tight and laid well back. Level topline, long, deep and flat ribcage, muscular thighs with well-bent stifles and hocks. Tail low set and long enough to at least reach the hock.

I like a thick springy coat which is straight, and prefer it to lie flat on top of the head, rather than stick up like a powder puff, though this is usually alright when the puppy wool has been cast. It should feel harsh even at this age, and be straight. If the adult coat is going to be wavy, the puppy coat by 12 weeks will show definite signs of waviness behind the ears, on the neck and the tail.

Temperament should be bold, happy and gay. If the temperament is basically sound, but the pup is reserved with strangers and new surroundings, this can usually be overcome by taking him about with you, to the shops or a dog-minded friend's house. Also putting him the arms of "doggy" type visitors, from an early age, can produce a very sociable pup.

Well, I hope this has been of interest to you, and has perhaps given you some tips for choosing your own puppies. I wish you luck with your Beardies and hope you have the pleasure and fun of showing, as well as owning your dogs.

Taboo . . . in Any other Breed

by Jim Conro

There has always existed an unwritten--but nevertheless accepted--code of ethics for breeders and exhibitors, irregardless of their specific breed. It has been rather evident since February, 1977 that many individuals breeding and exhibiting Beardies either are not aware of--or do not care about ethics.

In reference to the exhibitor, it has always been understood that "there are certain people that you ethically do not show under." Essentially, it has always been considered to be highly unethical to show your dog under its breeder or under the owner of its sire. This should not require any explanation, the reasons are obvious. In Beardies, however, it appears to be different. At the BCCA Specialties, for example, dogs have been shown under their breeder; dogs have also been shown under the owner of the sire. These practices began prior to 1977 and are still with us today. Does this reflect a lack of knowledge on ethics? Does this indicate a "win at all cost and to heck with ethics" attitude?

The practice of a national breed club Board member showing under another Board member has always been frowned upon. It does exist to a certain extent in some breeds, but it has always been discouraged. It is legal for a Board member to travel 500 or 1000 miles to show under another. It is legal for one to travel across the country to show a dog under another Board member who happens to be the owner of the sire. Legal, yes. The practice is, however, regarded as extremely unethical by the AKC and by exhibitors in any other breed. Such a practice is not in the best interest of the breed, the parent club, or the individual judge! There have been instances in the past in various breeds where two or more of such Board members have obtained judges' licenses. This frequently led to the "you put up my dog and I'll put up your dog" scam. Is this waiting in the wings?

Most alarming -- and threatening to the existence of the breed is the lack of ethics among some breeders. Again, there has always been a certain understanding of some basic principles of ethical breeding. It is regarded as unethical to breed dogs that are known to: be epileptic; be dysplastic; have a wry mouth; be severely over - or undershot; have missing teeth; be monorchid; be badly mismarked. Again--these basic principles do not appear to apply in Beardies. People are breeding dogs known to be dysplastic or epileptic. Are the buyers of the offspring informed? What about buyers of the 3rd or 4th generation offspring that invest two or three years into the dog only to discover epilepsy or dysplasia? Other individuals are breeding wry-mouth to wry-mouth or monorchid to mis-mark merely to obtain puppies that will be pushed out into pet homes at six or seven weeks of age for anywhere from $200 to $400. A common theme among these breeders seems to be a vast number of bitches in the kennel in order to "pop-out" four, five, or more litters a year. The effects of this indiscriminate and unethical breeding are already apparent in the showing. It will be much more apparent in the future. The future of the breed is, to say the least, very questionable.

Understanding the Bearded Collie

by Joan Blumire

One of the most perplexing questions potential exhibitors may ask of themselves is "when to begin training their Bearded Collie." In order to find the answer we may resort to delving into various canine books, only to find suggestions may vary from six to twelve months, or advocate waiting until total maturity. I think the reason for such a disparity of answers may lie in the meaning of "training."

The AKC and other official bodies have formed trials at which various working or structural components of the dog are studied during rigidly defined tests, the successful completion of which earns different titles. The owner therefore puts on collar and leash, takes the Beardie to conformation and/or obedience school and attempts to teach him to correctly perform certain tasks, and training has begun--or has it?

Let's take a broader look at the concept of "training" and attempt to define its meaning as it may apply to our needs. We may feel that training is "directing learning experiences toward required behaviour." It follows then that training can begin when the Beardie is capable of absorbing learning experiences.

To find the correct time this may occur let's retrace his life from the moment of birth. We can visualize the traumatic moments that led to his being roughly ejected from the warmth and safety of the womb to the dangerous outside world, and watch as his survival instincts send him fighting and struggling towards the life-sustaining mother's milk. We will see the satisfaction that follows his success, and realize to our dismay that his learning experiences have begun--he forgot to wait for us!

During the days that follow he will gain many experiences through his senses of taste, smell and touch, and a whole new vista will open up to him as his eyes become able to focus on sights around him. Roughhousing and play between littermates is all designed to teach him to function as a future adult, and the time will soon come when he will be forced to leave his family and be introduced to strange new noises and smells and two-legged companions, and new pleasures and new restraints will be constantly thrust upon him. All through his life he will be continually experiencing all manner of pleasurable and unfavourable circumstances, and with each new occurrence he will be learning, whether or not we are aware of or intend it.

The hereditary makeup of our Beardie, coupled with his environmental conditions will directly affect both his behaviour, and his desire and ability to perform the tasks we wish. It would therefore be so much to our advantage if we could arrange his environment in every possible manner to be of maximum benefit for the future.

We have come to realize now I think, that there is no one month learning will begin, and no magic key to turn him on to learn only what we wish to teach him. Since he will be consistently learning, we will wish to use every opportunity to train him to learn the things we wish.

We certainly can't put a leash on a 6-week-old puppy and say "heel" but now we know this isn't what training is just about anyway! We can take a look at each stage of his life and see what he is capable of learning at that particular phase. We must be aware of the very limited concentration span of a young puppy and not attempt to teach him things beyond his capabilities, but progress slowly and carefully step-by-step.

Training to be examined in the ring will first begin when we accustom him to being handled from his earliest days. A keen retrieve will be gained from the time we encourage an interest in rolling objects at a few weeks. A prompt recall will start when we call him in from the yard, perhaps with the aid of treats. Scenting abilities will be developed when we play hide and seek games. Thus we can use our imagination to think of all manner of tiny lessons that may be painlessly learned as a prelude to the days when he will be capable of performing the exercises exactly as required in the ring.

Time spent with a young puppy will be invaluable in getting to know and understand him, finding the strengths and weaknesses of his character, and helping him to form a happy and confident outlook, which will be a great future asset. Let us not neglect any time of our Beardie's life, for a day once lost can never be regained.

The All-Time Standings

by J. Richard Schneider

The Bearded Collie in the United States has come a long way from those bewildering days in the early seventies when Beardie pioneers scurried about show rings in "rare breed" matches in the company of Lowchens, Shar-Peis and Greater Sennenhunden. Even in the (thankfully) brief sojourn through the miscellaneous class, it was often less than a satisfying experience to find our dogs' merits compared to those of Ibizans and Australian Cattle Dogs. Finally, at the start of 1977, Beardies were given the opportunity to join in regular championship competition at AKC sanctioned shows.

The AKC championship competitive framework, however imperfect, has endured with little modification since the 1920s, and in more archaic forms since May 1877 when the sportsmen of the Westminster Kennel Club attracted 1177 entries to their first annual show in New York's Gilmore's Garden. Overall, Beardie fanciers have responded enthusiastically to championship competition, and through this exposure have earned for the Beardie new adherents and growing appreciation.

Periodically, reports appear in the Beardie Bulletin and Newsletter summarizing the results of the leading Bearded Collies in show competition. These are based upon official show results as published monthly in the AKC Gazette. As the Gazette only reports the results of individual dog shows, statistical compilation and summarization must be done to determine the overall standings. Diane Shannon (Arcadia) has kept these records and developed the summaries since Beardies have been in the show ring. In addition, sets of breed show statistics are independently maintained by Gail Miller (Gaymardon) and myself, so they can be occasionally checked with each other for accuracy.

The all-time Beardie show records as presented here are based on Diane Shannon's four-year records, as checked out with her fellow record-keepers. Here are a few points about the way the standings are kept:

1. Monthly standings as they appear in the BCCA Newsletter are kept on a calendar year basis. There is usually a 2-1/2 month lag between the dog show and the Gazette which includes shows through late August 1980. The all-time standings will be updated annually after the results of the full calendar year's shows have been published. The next next update should appear around May 1981.

2. Breed standings credit a dog for every Best of Breed won even if no other Beardies were entered. Thus, the "Dog in Competition" column which determines the dog's rank includes one point for the dog itself each time a BOB has been won. The BOB win is counted because the dog is still a live bonafide entry in the show, eligible for further competition in the Working Group.

3. Group Standings include all placements obtained by a dog in the Working Group. Best In Show awards are not counted as additional placements. In the "Dogs Defeated" column--which determines the rank--a dog gets credit for every dog shown in the Working Group that it is placed over, plus one for itself. (Note that the Canine Chronicle and Kennel Review group systems do not award the dog a point for itself.) If a dog wins a Group 3, it gets a point for every dog shown in every breed in the group except for the breeds whose winners have placed Group 1 and Group 2. Theoretically, the dog's placement means he has defeated all the dogs shown whose breed winners did not place or who placed lower. A Group 1 "defeats" all the those shown in the Working breeds, and a Best-in-Show "defeats" every dog in the show.

Despite the cross-checking done by the record-keepers, no claim of infallibility is made in keeping the breed statistics. Counting the dogs defeated in a working group placement is a challenge due to the size of the Gazette show record, type and layout. In addition, the Gazette frequently contains errors which are not corrected until later editions. If you feel that any statistics involving a dog of yours are inaccurate, please don't hesitate to write to Diane or me. But do give us the means to verify your figures, ideally by providing the shows' date and, if possible, the Gazette issues of the results in question. We want the show record data base to be as accurate as possible for future generations.

Now for a few comments about the all-time rankings:

- Ch. Brambledale Blue Bonnet and Ch. Ha'Penny Blue Blossom, #1 and #2 in Breed Competition and #2 and #3 in Group Competition are mother and daughter. Blossom is owned by my wife and me, and Bonnet, originally owned by Henrietta Lachman and me, was shown and is now owned by Robert and Henrietta Lachman.
- Ch. Shaggylane's Beaming Teak (#1 in Group and #4 in Breed), owned by Canada's Barbara Niddrie, has been shown in all four years of competition. His remarkable US record has been achieved despite his being primarily shown in Canada.
- Of the Breed Top 20, ten are American-bred, eight are English imports and two Canadian-bred. Only four are bitches.
- Of the 29 Group placers, fourteen are American-bred, fourteen are English imports and one is Canadian-bred.

- The kennel name most represented in both standings is Joyce Collis' Beagold, with three of her emigrants placing on the Breed and Group list. Of the Breed Top 20, Rich-lin and Silverleaf are represented twice. In addition, Jim and Diane Shannon and Ferd and Wendy Reinlieb each have two dogs represented (#5 and #9 owned by the Shannons, and #10 and #12 owned or formerly owned by the Reinliebs).

- Six kennel names are represented twice with group-placing dogs: Brambledale, Davealex, Edenborough, Gaymardon, Mistiburn, and Rich-lin.

CH. GLEN EIRE GOOD GRACIOUS

(Ch. Willowmead Something Super ex Ch. Glen Eire's Molly Brown)

A really winning combination-- Gracie and our daughter Carol!!

Grace put on her new adult coat this spring and went Best in Match under the experienced eye of breeder-judge Barbara Blake at the BCCGNY's B Match.

At the National Specialty, Grace was Best of Winners from "Bred by" under Robert Ward over a huge entry of bitches.

Finishing her championship, handled beautifully by Carol, we are proud to say that Grace shows the type, temperament, soundness and style which we are striving to achieve.

We hope to breed Grace to our own Ch. Glen Eire Willie Wonderful early in 1981.

All breeding stock x-rayed clear for H.D.

1980 was a super year for the Glen Eire Beardies. Four more of our dogs achieved R.O.M. status this year. They are:

Ch. Willowmead Something Super R.O.M. (5 chs.)
 Ch. Glen Eire's Molly Brown (5 chs.)
 Am. Can.* Ch. Glen Eire Willie Wonderful (5 chs.)
 Glen Eire Skye o'Cauldbrae (3 chs.)

* Pending AKC confirmation

Specialed part-time in 1980, our boy Willie proved himself in the showring, and again as a producer. Willie won the Stud Dog Class at the National Specialty. Thanks go to his lovely blue ladies "Bonnet" and "Sterling" for letting us borrow their babies for the stud dog class.

Finishing championships, as well as Gracie, was her littermate Ch. Glen Eire Starstruck. Gathering up his puppy points, "Rory" finished in two weekends with four BOBs.

Joining our stud dogs is the beautiful Ch. Willowmead Midnight Black—now proven —"Midi" outdid himself by finishing before his first birthday.

*Ch. Willowmead
 Midnight Black*
 (age 15 months)

We wish a very Merry Christmas to all--- and a healthy and Happy New Year --

CH. CRICKET'S LOOKIN' GOOD

(Ch. Glen Eire Willie Wonderful x Ch. Brambledale Blue Bonnet CD)

Roscoe was WD for 5 points to finish from the 12-18 month class at the BCCA National Specialty under judge Robert Ward. Thank you to the judges who recognized him for the "superdog" he is. Roscoe will follow in his mother's footsteps by entering the obedience ring in '81.

Windfiddler congratulates all the winners at the Specialty, especially Roscoe's mom, who was 1st Veteran bitch, 1st in brood bitch and BOS, and his dad who was 1st in stud dog class. A special congratulations to Jane Turner and her lovely Ch. Mistiburn Merrymaker who was BOB.

Gaymardons Baron of Bramel

Ch. Edenborough Brackenson x
Ch. Gaymardon's Chesapeake Mist

--BOB Panhandle KC;
judge Joseph E. Gregory

Bramel and Baron would like to congratulate two of Baron's sons from his first litter... Arcadia's Carbon Copy, pointed, and Arcadia's Silver Nitrate who has both majors and is nearing his championship.

We are expecting an exciting litter by Baron and Ch. Jande's Amy of Bramel (Am. Can. Ch. Edenborough Silver Shadow and Am. Can. Ch. Mistiburn Pocahontas). Baron and Amy complement each other both by pedigree and conformation so this should produce some outstanding puppies.

Reservations being considered for show and companions.

FLASH! Silver Nitrate goes
Group 2 at 10 mos.--Bexar Co.
KC, November 30!

Children and Beardies. This is what it's all about—great temperament and willingness to please both at home and in the show ring.

Pictured above, our eleven-year-old daughter Janelle and our first Beardie Ch. Parcana's Holly of Mereworth. Janelle and Holly went Best Junior Handler from Junior Novice Class at Heart of the Plains KC. They followed up this exciting win with back-to-back firsts in Jr. Novice on the next outs at Lawton Ft. Sill KC and Faith City KC. The going gets a little tougher now as they go to Junior Open.

Holly is also excited about two of her pups from her first litter by Ch. Gaymardon Yorktown Yankee.

Ch. Bramel's Master Toby, owned by Colin and Judy Alter finished his championship at 11 months going BW all three days at the Astro Circuit in Houston, TX.

Bramel's Abby Rose of Beville, owned by Lee Stockfelt, is being shown and has both of her majors in limited showing.

#1 Bearded Collie--
1980 Breed and Group Standings

We are proud that Blossom has won her 143rd Best of Breed, which on confirmation will place her first in the All-Time Bearded Collie Breed Standings. Blossom has temporarily retired for maternal duties, after leading the 1980 Breed and Group competition (November Gazette) in her nine months of showing.

Am. & Eng. Ch. Chauntelle Limelight

Limelight has quickly added his American championship to his English title. Unbeaten in the classes, he finished with 7 BOBs, 4 BOWs and 2 group placements. We look forward to the opportunity for more Beardie fanciers to meet this outstanding son of Eng. Ch. Edenborough Blue Bracken in 1981.

CH. MAGOO RETIRES

Am. and Can. CH. MAGOO announces that he is now permanently retired. With 90 Best of Breeds and 20 Group Placements (including 5 Group Firsts and 5 Group Seconds), Magoo ranks as one of America's all-time great Beardies. His record is unsurpassed by any other owner-handled American-bred Beardie; it is comparable only to that of his two friends--also 2 owner-handled greats that we have always admired: Bonnet and Kent. Since 1977, Magoo has always been a favorite of most judges and exhibitors alike, who acknowledged him as a truly great Beardie. His performances in the group ring, such as that Chicago International in October 1978 endeared him and the breed in the hearts of many spectators.

His treatest qualities--substance and movement--have been endowed as a heritage in his sons and daughters.

MAGOO OFA--BC 73

Magoo congratulates:

His sons --

CH. LOCHENGAR GREAT EXPECTATIONS ("Fletcher") on his championship, owner-handled
CH. LOCHENGAR OUR MUTUAL FRIEND ("Ashley") on his several Best of Breeds over top competition in limited showing. Ashley is owner-handled by Nancy Pechman and also has a Group Second.

LOCHENGAR KERNAL PICKERING ("Pickers"), Winners Dog at the Duluth KC, handled by Jim Conro. Pickers has 8 points, both majors, and is owned by Jill Newland.

LOCHENGAR TRESSPASSERS W. ("Duffy"), reserve WD at Duluth. Duffy is owned by Mike Durkin.

His daughter--

LOCHENGARS PIGLET ("Aggie"), on her WB and BOS at Lake Shore KC over professionally handled Special bitches at 14 months of age, owner-handled by Judy Dorman.

His grandson--

LOCHENGARS OUR FINEST HOUR ("Winston"), on his Best Puppy in Match, Msp.-St. Paul BCC at 9 weeks of age under judge Helen Miller Fisher. Winston is out of Pickers x Tuppence, and as a double-Magoo grandson offers immense future potential.

MAGOO will remain at stud to approved bitches. Fee--$400. We will guarantee three live puppies. All our studs are brucellosis free and sperm checked to insure potency. Ch. Magoo, Ch. Fletcher, Ch. Chelsea, Pickers, Tuppence, and Honey Bear all have full and proper dentition.

Megan was also RWB from the puppy class over adults in her first AKC show and was BOB and Group 3 at a large all-breed match. Megan is an 11-month-old fawn and white.

Fletcher is at stud to approved bitches: Fee $250; 2 live puppies guaranteed

Fletcher will be bred to our English import from Edenborough Kennels--Ch. Excellent Outfit Queen ("Chelsea") as soon as she comes in season. We are accepting a limited number of reservations. Chelsea is the dam of Pickers and Aggie.

For sale: show quality litter sister of "Winston"--to show home only.

Arcadia's Country Music

Emmy

Posey

"Texas-sized" Season's Greetings to "Y'all" from Am. Ch. Brisles Glen Nadia, Am. CD, Bmd. CD and Gaymardon's A Star is Born.

"Sure as shooting" it has been a "humdinger" of a year. The "Texas sprit" and Posey's "pioneering" urge has sent her into "uncharted territory" where she left her "brand" and "tamed these frontiers" of dog obedience and conformation.

Posey and Emmy "lassoed" the very first Bearded Collie obedience brace team, "corralling" a 4th place trophy.

Posey's get up and go got up and went flying down the scent hurdle "trail." As a first string member of CDTC's scent hurdle team--the SCENTsations--Posey has won new friends for Bearded Collie enthusiasts.

Leaving her "territory," Posey headed out for Bermuda to catch another obedience title "dead or alive." The "bounty" she won was a Bermuda CD with 3 placements and lots of "rip-roaring" applause.

Not to be outdone, Posey's "greenhorn paw-dner," Emmy, placed 4th in her very first obedience match. Watch for this "buckaroo" in obedience the spring!

SIRE: CAN. AM. CH. ALGOBRAE STERLING SILVER DAM: CAN. AM. CH. BELIEVABLE BELLE

Argo completed his championship at 8 months of age. The following weekend, he took Reserve Winners Dog (over several American Champions) and Best Puppy in Show at the BCCC Specialty. Argo also took Best of Opposite Sex at the BCCC Puppy Futurity, held on the same weekend.

At 10 months of age, at Argo's first US show, he took Reserve Winners Dog from the 9-12 month old Puppy Dog Class at the BCCA Specialty.

Now at just 13 months of age, Argo has taken 13 Best of Breeds, consistently placing over top adult group and Specialty winning Beardies.

Argo will be available at stud in 1981. (Contact Classical for further information).

(OFA-BC-183)

(Ch. Misty Shadow of Willowmead x Ch. Luath Bonnie Blue Bairn)

A typey born-black Beardie, Misty is shown winning 3 points from Judge Robert G. Wills. She also has to her credit a Best of Breed from the classes.

On her way to her championship, Misty made three quick trips to the obedience ring to pick up her C.D.--she placed 1st and 2nd in two of her trips.

And now, after a visit to Ch. Gaymardon Yorktown Yankee (multiple group placements, OFA-BC-50--excellent), she will have a chance to "do her thing" in the whelping box. Puppies due in mid-December.

A big thanks to Anne Dolan for sending us this special Beardie!!

Cooper—A Love Story

Chapter 3

Cooper and his teachers decided to visit relatives in Colorado, where Cooper won two 4-point majors from Bred-by-Exhibitor class. He was excited at the prospect of graduating from High School and going on to College. In Topeka, just four months after starting school, Cooper won Best of Breed to graduate! Now an American Champion, he returned to Winnipeg and earned his Master's degree by winning three Bests of Breed and a Group 3. His teachers were very pleased as he had become a Champion in two countries at 13 months of age. Cooper decided to continue his education, and began graduate studies by winning Best of Breed at four of his six shows as a Special. Having graduated with such honors, Cooper will now often tell his own story.

"Thank you. At this time, I would like to inform the Fancy of a few facts. I am 21-1/2" tall and 27" long. My teachers tell me I'm fertile, which means I am now allowed to play the Mating Game with lovely ladies. May I take this opportunity to wish you all a very Merry Christmas and a Purple New Year!"

Ch. Parchment Farm's Mr. Kite

Fergus is shown finishing his championship on September 14, at Sir Francis Drake K.C. under judge Robert J. Moore, ending his class career with another 3-point major, and only 6 months from his first time in the ring.

This Beardie is one super sound mover, credited to his excellent front and rear assembly. Along with a topline that won't quit, correct coat and a loving, outgoing personality, Fergus exemplifies what true Beardie type is all about.

A very sincere thank you to Cynthia Mahigian for the opportunity to own and love a really outstanding representative of the breed, and a big "Thanks" to all my Beardie friends and enthusiasts for your support and education!

Ch. Parchment Farm's Blackwatch

Parchment Farm would like to congratulate our "Holly"—Tambora's Black Rose-Marie—on her excellent "work" the past few years, especially:

Ch. Cauldbrac's Rascallion
Ch. Parchment Farm's Rob Roy
Ch. Parchment Farm's Mr. Kite
Ch. Parchment Farm's Blackwatch

Holly has now retired to a life of tea and crumpets as befits a lady of her quality.

We are pleased to announce that our Ch.* Brambledale Belladonna (Can. Am. Ch. Brambledale Boz x Brambledale Belladonna) will be bred to Ch. Parchment Farm's Blackwatch (Ch. Brambledale Bard x Tambora's Black Rose-Marie) as soon as she comes in season. We are expecting another exceptionally fine litter from this breeding; reservations are now being accepted.

*AKC confirmation pending.

What becomes a legend?

... the kind of quality and excellence in structure, soundness, and movement that make for a consistent winner in the show ring, and a consistent producer as a stud.

... that extra bit of pizzazz in temperament, expression, and type to make for something really "Special," not just another champion.

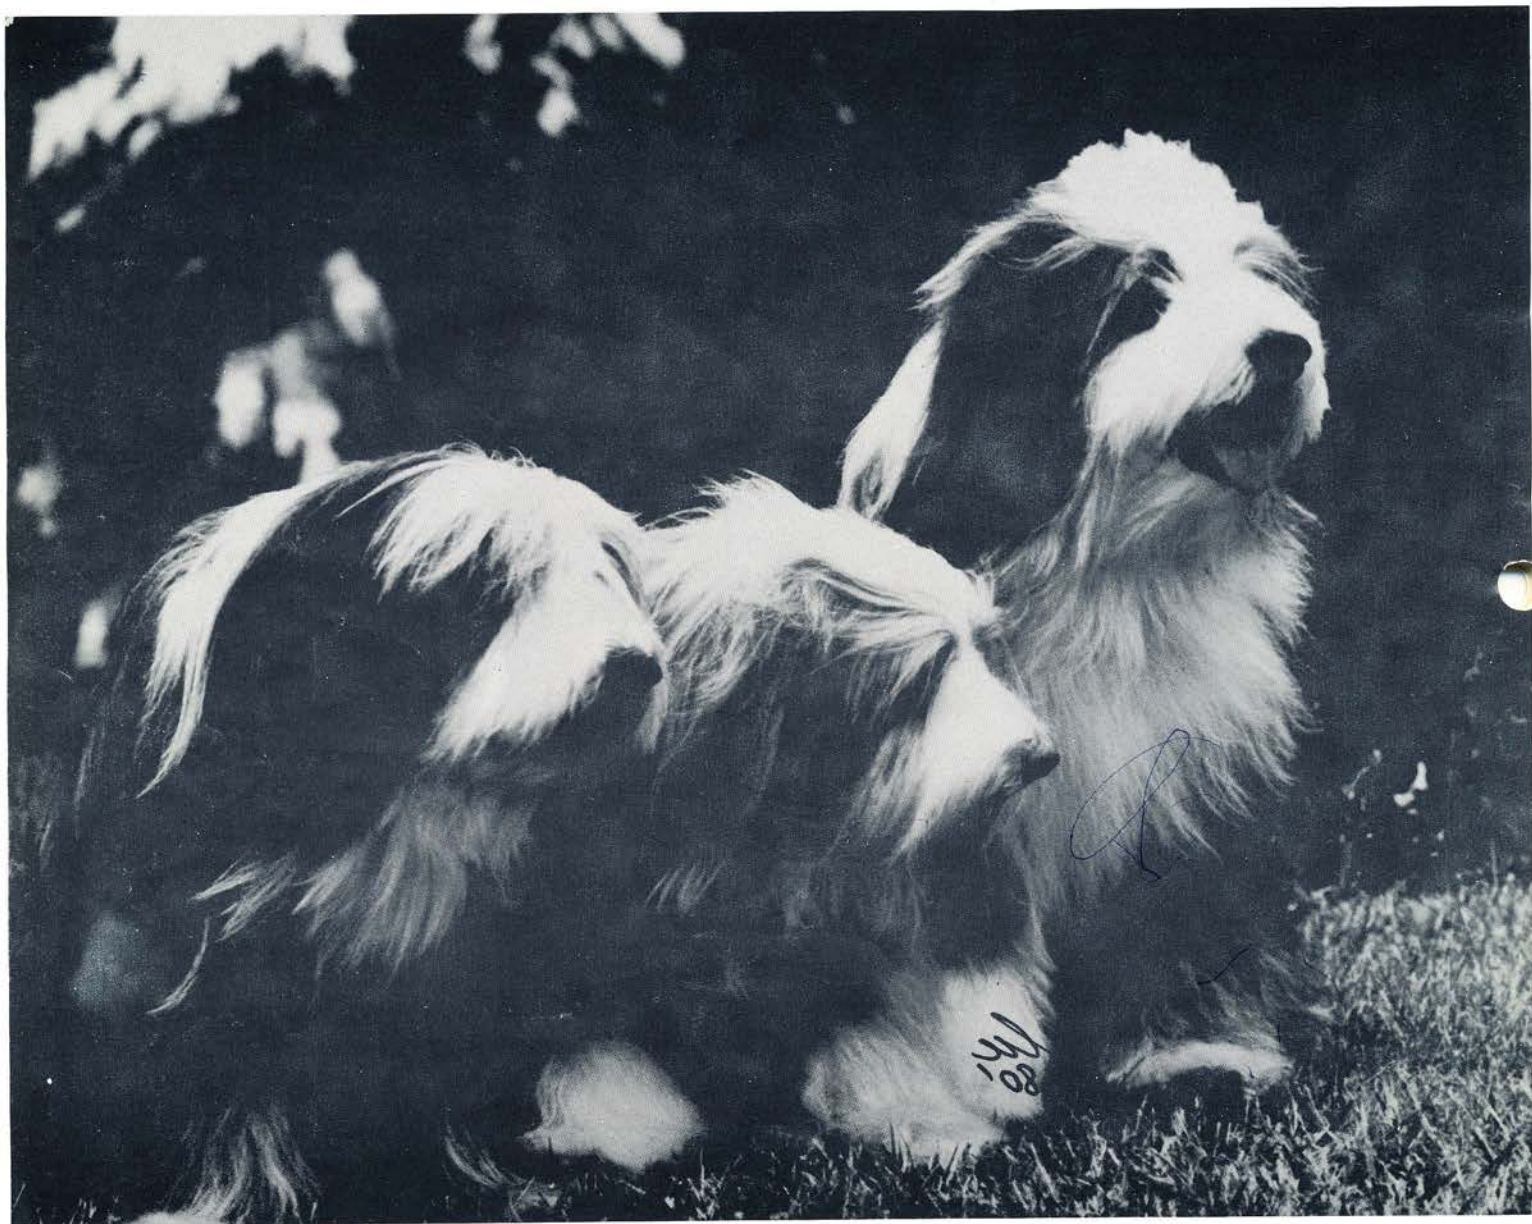

... and it doesn't hurt to have a glamorous black fur coat.

CH. BRAMBLEDALE BLACKFRIAR—Best of Breed, Chicago International (14 Beardies entered); Best of Breed and Group IV, Evansville KC (14 Beardies entered); Best of Breed, Columbus KC (18 Beardies entered); all fall 1980.
